SUMMER FESTIVAL GUIDE 28

The best fests, in brilliant detail

VENUE DIRECTORY 44

The stuff you need to know before you go

Now in its 10th annual edition, L.A. Weekly's Summer Concert Guide is bigger than ever, detailing 100 music venues, over 40 area festivals and concert series (including, if they're really spectacular, fests further afield in California) and countless live shows.

With new local venues (such as Teragram Ballroom, Mrs. Fish and the recently reopened Regent Theater) and festivals (including Art of Rap and Cathouse Live) popping up like smartphones during a mid-set ballad, live music clearly isn't going anywhere. Are you?

NOCTURNAL WONDERLAND

When: Friday, September 4 – Sunday, September 6

Where: San Manuel Amphitheater & Grounds
2575 Glen Helen Parkway
Devore CA 92407

Web: NocturnalWonderland.com Facebook.com/NocturnalWonderland
Twitter.com/NocturnalWland Instagram.com/NocturnalWland/

What: Nocturnal Wonderland invites you into an enchanted wonderland of world-class music and unparalleled production. It's going to be a spectacular you simply cannot miss, as Nocturnal Wonderland celebrates its 20th anniversary September 4, 5 and 6 at the San Manuel Amphitheater and Grounds. Two decades ago, Insomniac threw the very first Nocturnal Wonderland. The sounds of X-Pando, Fester, Moon Pup, Simply Jeff and more permeated the air at the inaugural event. This was in the days of rave info lines, hidden locations and, of course, JNCOs. A lot has changed since then, but what's remained has been our collective commitment to the music, to the culture, and to our Headliners. We're giving North America's longest-running dance music festival the proper birthday it deserves with a cannot-miss festival this Labor Day weekend. Together, we're going to create some nighttime magic.

Who: Headliners Armin van Buuren, Pretty Lights, and Bassnectar, plus performances by Afrojack, Knife Party, Duke Dumont, Madeon, Alesso, and many, many more.

AMPLIFYI, right next door to Paramount Studios on Melrose Ave. in the heart of Hollywood, is L.A.'s best-kept live music secret. One of the few no-alcohol, all-ages music venues in the city, this intimate space has often been compared to the legendary 60's club "The Cavern", where the Beatles started, because of its cool underground vibe: small (60-70 capacity), hard to find (no sign, no address, the front door is literally in a back alley), great atmosphere, and is owned by a 21-year-old female singer/musician (who recently made the cover of L.A. Weekly's "Best of LA: People" annual issue). All this, plus AMPLIFYI is rightly known for its great sound.

Good Eats Nearby: AMPLIFYI is right behind Astroburger, 5601 Melrose Ave.;

Parking Tips: There's plenty of street parking nearby, but read the posted restrictions carefully.

Know Before You Go: AMPLIFYI is located in the alley behind Astroburger, between Gower and El Centro. Open Thursday - Sunday. (This is AMPLIFYI in Hollywood, not to be confused with Amplify in Santa Monica)

Falling James wrote: The small, homey room has a dive-y ambiance, what with its low, white stucco ceiling offset by a scuffed checkerboard floor, strands of Christmas lights and posters of The Gears and Meat Puppets. Books the type of adventurous punk, jazz, stoner rock, metal and improvisational bands that would have played at Raji's, Al's Bar, the Cathay de Grande or, going further back, the Hong Kong Café and the Starwood. ElCidLA.com

El Cid stands on the site of the cornfield where D.W. Griffith shot scenes for Birth of a Nation in 1915. Originally built as the popular Jail Café (an eatery and speakeasy designed like a prison and with guard-uniformed waiters) in 1925, this storied structure became the Gateway Theatre in 1932 and thirty years later was transformed into an authentic replica of a 16th-century Spanish tavern, complete with romantic patio, under the suitably evocative "El Cid" name. It is still home to the famous Spanish Flamenco Dinner shows that have been going strong since the 1960's, but has more recently become known for its variety of live entertainment. Nightly live offerings include national and local bands, DJs, comedy, film screenings, burlesque, and variety shows. It might seem incongruous, but El Cid throws a really good rock show.

An intimate acoustic/light band listening room inside, of all things, a well-known upscale New York Chinese restaurant. Somehow this unlikely combo works and there's really nothing quite like Genghis Cohen in town: The listening room resembles a small chapel, with rows of pew-like seating on either side of a center aisle. The small scale of the place means that not only are the acoustics perfectly suited to more understated acts, but the performers can establish a genuine rapport with their audience. A newly remodeled showroom and sound system keeps the music in and the bar noise out (and vice versa).

Tickets: Mostly door sales; some Ticketweb sales.

Parking Tips: Small adjacent lot or street parking.
